

Fall Floral and Decor trends from Colin Cowie, Lifestyle Floral & Decor Services

In terms of flowers, we're heading toward shades of deep reds or burgundies. For a country wedding, you might take rustic watering cans or water pails, and fill them with black magic roses and hypericum berries-that makes for a wonderful fall look. In the autumn, black magic roses- which actually a deep, dark burgundy- work along with the wonderful browns. There's the gorgeous chocolate brown rose called Leonidas. You can also incorporate fruits, vegetables and autumnal things for centerpieces. In the fall, it's all about the harvest so try apples and pears, so big bowls of apples and pears are a fun and inexpensive way to create beautiful centerpieces. I also love the idea of adding apples, pears and clementines and oranges and even grapes to the flower arrangements at this time of the year for a splash of rich color. Since it's the time of the harvest-and to make it more traditional, you can bring in elements of gold. Then you really dress it up wonderfully.
